Grand jury to hear fatality case

by Lilly Adkins
ASSOCIATE EDITOR

WITTENSVILLE — A case involving the Aug. 16 death of an 18-year-old motorcyclist in a head-on collision with an automobile will be presented to the Johnson County Grand Jury, the detective investigating the crash said Tuesday.

Law enforcement officials conducted a reconstruction of the accident scene last week and evidence is still being processed, Kentucky State Police Det. Jason Dials said.

Myra Castle, 53, of Wittensville, is currently charged with aggravated DUI in connection with the collision that killed Casey Roger Mollett Jr., 18, of Flat Gap.

According to a press release issued just after the crash, officers received a call of a two-vehicle accident on Rt. 201 in the Sitka community of Johnson County. After they responded to the scene, officers obtained information that indicated the vehicle driven by Castle crossed the center line of the roadway and struck the motorcycle operated by Mollett, who was pronounced dead at the scene by Johnson County Coroner J.R. Frisby.

Castle was transported to Paul B. Hall Medical Center in Johnson County following the crash and allegedly admitted to having drunk vodka earlier in the day. She also agreed to submit to a chemical test and the results are still unavailable.

Dials said Tuesday that no additional charges have yet been filed against Castle.

Detention hearing today for Kline

PIKEVILLE — A detention hearing is set today (Wednesday) for a Johnson County man charged with federal drug offenses.

The hearing for John Thomas Kline, 42, of West Van Lear, was initially scheduled for last Thursday but continued by U.S. Magistrate Judge Edward B. Atkins.

A federal grand jury returned a 12-count indictment earlier this month against Kline, who indicated in March that he would run for Johnson County sheriff in 2014. He told a confidential informant that he was one of the county's biggest drug dealers, according to court records.

The indictment charges Kline with distribution and possession with intent to distribute Oxycodone, Carisoprodol and Alprazolam; carrying a firearm during and in relation to drug trafficking; and possession of a firearm by an unlawful user of marijuana.

The indictment claims Kline distributed a quantity of Oxycodone in Floyd County July 19, 2011, Aug. 12, 2011, and Oct. 12, 2011; and in Johnson County April 13, 2012, and July 5 of this year.

The indictment also says Kline distributed Alprazolam and Carisoprodol in Johnson County May 9 and July 5 of this year.

That was the same day Kline car-

Floyd prosecutor honored at annual state conference

by Lilly Adkins

LEXINGTON — Floyd County Commonwealths Attorney Brent Turner, received an award from Kentucky Attorney General Jack Conway recognizing him as one of the 2013 Outstanding Commonwealth's Attorneys during a Kentucky Prosecutors Conference held at the Lexington Convention Center last week.

Nearly 700 prosecutors, commonwealth's and county attorneys, staff members and law enforcement from all across Kentucky attended the three-day conference.

Turner said he was surprised about being selected.

"I didn't find out until I got there at the prosecutor's office," Turner said. "As you know, over the last several years it's become frustrating to be a prosecutor, and the trend we are moving in is softening the criminal laws. As prosecutors, we only usually hear from people who are asking us to get someone out of jail, and we rarely get positive feedback for what we do. Anytime something like Thapar ordered the letter filed as a motion Aug. 13 and then denied the request.

Lawrence, Johnson, Martin get new state legislators

by Tony Fyffe
BSN MANAGING EDITOR

FRANKFORT — It's official: Lawrence, Johnson and Martin counties will have new state lawmakers as a result of redistricting bills passed last week by the General Assembly.

Lawrence County will have a new representative and a new senator, Johnson County will have a new senator and Martin County will have a new representative thanks to the action.

Lawrence County, which has long been in the 99th House District, was moved into the 96th District, which also includes Carter County. The current representative is Republican Jill York of Grayson.

Democratic House Floor Leader Rocky Adkins of Boyd County, who had been Lawrence County's representative for several years, is now part of the 100th District, which includes all of Boyd County. Adkins has said he might move to his native Elliott County and run in the new 99th District, which also includes Rowan and Lewis counties.

Lawrence County is also now part of the 31st Senate District, which will also include Pike and Martin counties and is currently represented by Democrat Ray Jones of Pikeville. Lawrence County's long-time senator had been Democrat Walter Blevins Jr. of Morehead.

Jones' 31st District had formerly included Johnson County, which has been moved to the 30th Senate District, which also includes Magoffin, Breathitt, Perry and Leslie counties. The district's current senator is Republican Brandon Smith of Hazard, who is the Senate majority whip.

Johnson County will remain in the 97th House District, which is represented by Democrat Hubert Collins. The district had formerly also consisted of Martin and parts of Floyd and Pike counties. The new 97th District will now include Johnson along with Morgan and Wolfe counties.

Collins will have to run against another Democrat, incumbent John Will Stacy of West Liberty, in next year's election.

Martin County has been placed in the 93rd House District, which also consists of part of Pike County and is presently represented by Democrat Keith Hall of Phelps.

Floyd County will remain in the 95th House and 29th Senate districts. House Speaker Greg Stumbo is the current representative while Johnny Ray Turner is the present senator. Both are Democrats.

All state House seats are up for election in 2014.

Company. The suit alleges damages to their homes and properties from blasting activities in connection to the construction of a new highway near the homes, which are located close to Sheldon Clark High School.

Now several other residents have come forward. A press release issued by Kirk Law Firm said another lawsuit has been filed against the road contractor on behalf of additional residents in Hardin Bottom and other areas of Martin County, alleging illegal and egregious blasting activities and seeking real and punitive damages.

Those named in the newest suit, filed Monday, include Glenn Horn, James Kirk, William Mollette, Mike Begley, Jesse Fletcher, Delores Laferty, Hazel Smith, Arthur Fletcher, Willis Statten, Loretta Mills and Robert Lee Oaks.

According to the suit, Kokosing Construction Company is a Westerville, Ohio, company and Brandywine Explosives & Supply is located in Paris, Ky.

“Two weeks ago, twelve owners of property at ‘Hardin Bottom’ and three others from Coldwater, filed a similar lawsuit,” John Kirk said. “After that suit was filed, lots of others have contacted us with similar problems. I find it alarming what has happened to our high school and to the homes of nearby families. It is my hope that the construction companies will step up to the plate and do something about the damage to our school and other properties.”

The suit alleges that the plaintiffs live near a mountain where the defendants have been blasting rock and that the blasting activities caused fly-rock and boulders to come onto their homes and properties and that the blasts “shook” the ground and caused the plaintiffs’ homes to “rattle.”

The suit also alleges that the plaintiffs live close to Sheldon Clark High School and that the blasting actions caused rocks and boulders to impact the school.

A photo of large boulders in the parking lot at Sheldon Clark High school is included in the evidence, which, the suit alleges, were “blasted” off the mountain onto the parking lot.

The suit also alleges that the “Defendants’ actions in causing numerous rocks to fly onto Plaintiffs’ property (and onto Sheldon Clark High School) show an egregious and unconscionable disregard for the welfare and safety of Plaintiffs, their children and for the students at Sheldon Clark High School” and that “Defendants’ intentional disregard for the safety and property of Plaintiffs constitutes Gross Negligence, for which Punitive Damages are appropriate.”

Just days before school was originally scheduled to begin in Martin County, school officials closed Sheldon Clark High School because they felt it too dangerous for students.

had “promised to recommend 48 months of incarceration for me” and noted that Albert had been “the most helpful and most remorseful criminal that he has ever had.”

“In spite of all of this, Prosecutor West asked you to sentence me to 75 months of incarceration,” Albert wrote.

Albert said he has “greatly benefitted from my incarceration,” saying the 19 months he has served in jail “provided me time to reflect on the many errors in my life that I have made.”

Albert said that prior to his incarceration, he spent more than 10 months volunteering at the Church of God Food Bank in Paintsville, calling it “one of the most rewarding activities in which I have ever participated.” He asked that his sentence be modified “so that some of this 75 months will be spent” in community service.

“My criminal actions hurt the citizens of the county,” Albert wrote. “Fortunately, no patient died as a result of my prescriptions. My crime was non-violent. If you will permit me to utilize some of the 75 months towards volunteering at least 40 hours per week at Church of God Food Bank, this will help our citizens and me. It would be a win-win situation for all.”

The judge denied the request without comment.

Albert pleaded guilty to illegally dispensing 50,000 prescription pills in Eastern Kentucky, admitting that from January 2009 until February 2011, he wrote numerous fraudulent prescriptions to individuals without a legiti-mate medical purpose. He typically wrote prescriptions for 100 (10-milligram) Percocet pills in exchange for $200 cash. Court records indicate that Albert frequently wrote approximately 40 to 50 fraudulent prescriptions in a given day.

Albert, 66, is serving his sentence in the Federal Correctional Institution in Ashland.

Conway commended Turner on his effectiveness as a special prosecutor.

“Brent is a tremendous asset to the prosecutorial system. His work as special prosecutor resulted in the removal from office of Knott County Judge-Executive Randy Thompson following his federal conviction for theft of federal funds and conspiracy,” Conway said. “I also appreciate Brent’s service as a member of the Executive Board of the Appalachian High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area (HIDTA).”

Wet/dry petition filed in Louisa

by Lilly Adkins
ASSOCIATE EDITOR

LOUISA — A local business owner looking to bring a new business into Louisa turned in a petition Thursday to Lawrence County Clerk Chris Jobe asking for a wet/dry vote to be put on the ballot.

Jobe said his office is currently in the process of verifying the signatures and that it will be turned over to Lawrence County Judge-Executive John Osborne after his verification is complete.

"It looks like the first signature was received on June 3," Jobe said. "I don't really want to say too much about it until we complete the verification of signatures."

Businessman Gene Wilson recently opened a new hotel in Louisa and said in an interview with The Big Sandy News in June that he is interested in seeing Louisa go wet because Applebee's has agreed to build a restaurant beside his hotel if they vote to go wet.

Wilson also said in the interview that the sell of alcohol could also generate revenue if businesses such as grocery stores could sell alcoholic beverages, but that he is against having a bar in town.

"Many of the people who stay at my hotel are from away from here, and when they ask about a nice restaurant that they can go to and enjoy a drink with their meal, I have to send them to somewhere like Ashland," Wilson said during the June interview. "We were in the Depot precinct, and I was getting signatures, but then we got annexed by the city and now that consists of East Louisa, West Louisa and Meadowbrook Precincts. I think there were more than 800 registered voters who voted in the last election, and I am required to get 25 percent of the number of people who voted to sign a petition asking that the issue be on the ballot. I think, and don't hold me to it, that we need around 220 signatures. I went to the city council meeting to ask that they allow me to place a copy of the petition at city hall, and they agreed. Four of the council members signed and then some of the members in the audience signed it, too. I think people are scared that there will be bars, and that isn't the case. If it goes through, then the city would be able to regulate who can have a license to operate, and if they didn't want a bar, they just simply deny the license."

Wilson pointed out that people who want alcoholic beverages are able to cross over into West Virginia and purchase them, but that it doesn't benefit the city when they do and that the city would benefit "greatly" if the city goes wet.

"I'm doing this because Applebee's is interested in building by my hotel," Wilson said. "If it gets approved, they will build a restaurant by my hotel and I won't have to send people elsewhere to eat. The city can regulate the licenses, but I see nothing wrong with places like Walmart or Food City being able to sell it. It's a win-win situation."

Jobe said Monday that he thought there needed to be 210 signatures on the petition and that once he does the verification and it is certified, it would be submitted to Osborne and a special election would be scheduled.

The investigation is ongoing, but hopefully by the next time the Johnson County Grand Jury meets, we will have all of the facts of the case ready and be able to present it to them."

Castle entered a not-guilty plea at her arraignment in Johnson County District Court and is scheduled for a pretrial conference Sept. 4.

At the time of the crash, officials said they suspected alcohol to be a contributing factor in the accident.

Mollett wasn't wearing a helmet at the time of the collision, according to the press release issued by the KSP.

Castle was released on a $50,000 cash or property bond with home confinement.

Man gets 20 years for child abuse

by Lilly Adkins
ASSOCIATE EDITOR

LOUISA — A man who caused serious injury to his 2-month-old son in August 2011 was formally sentenced Friday in Lawrence Circuit Court by Circuit Court Judge John David Preston to 20 years in prison.

Nicholas C. Ballou in July entered an Alford plea, which means he didn't admit guilt of the charges but agreed that the evidence against him would lead a jury to conclude he is guilty of the offense.

The child's mother, Amy Ballou, read a statement before he was sentenced and brought tears to the eyes of nearly everyone in the room, including Preston, in which she talked about the pain and suffering her son had suffered and how much he would continue to suffer for the remainder of his life.

Amy Ballou said her son Landyn's life has forever changed and that "as a result of his injuries, Landyn has Quadriplegic Cerebral Palsy, is blind due to retina hemorrhaging, and has so much scar tissue in his eyes you can see it in his pupils."

"His pituitary gland is completely destroyed to the point that he has to take painful growth hormone injections every day for the rest of his life," she said.

Amy Ballou said that her son also had other medications that he would have to take for the rest of his life and that he can't do things a normal child can do.

"He can't hold his head up for more than a few seconds at a time, he's unable to roll around and play with monster trucks and play in the dirt, and he can't run around the house driving his older sister crazy," she said. "He can't speak to communicate with me, he can't walk, crawl. He can't do any of those things that should come easy to him."

Amy Ballou also said that her son has only recently begun to laugh and that she has waited nearly two years to hear his laughter.

She talked about her daughter and how she had witnessed what happened to her brother, but was young when it happened and has been deprived of enjoying her brother and doing things for him when she can't as well as the amount of time she must spend going to the doctor and leaving her with her grandparents.

"Just the other day, she was in tears because she missed her daddy," Amy Ballou said. "I tried to console her, the best I could, and she looked at me and said she missed him, and then said, 'I bet he's crying because he misses me too.'"

"For myself, I went from being a wife and a mother, working full time, surrounded by friends to a single mom and having a child now with special needs," Amy Ballou said. "My social life now is extremely slim, some of the friends I had have parted ways with me because I never have time for anyone besides my children. I had to quit my job to take care of Landyn 24/7. I have seen him fight for his life, not once, but twice. He got sick in October 2011 due to complications from what happened in August, he almost lost his life again. Since his immune system is compromised, a common cold for him can be fatal. Landyn now has reflux issues and is scheduled to have a feeding tube placed and a procedure fundoplication in October. He is still going to have to struggle every day for the rest of his life because of something that was 100 percent preventable."

Nick Ballou was indicted in August 2012 but remained on the run until he was apprehended in November 2012 with the assistance of a family member.

He was charged in an indictment with first-degree assault and first-degree criminal abuse of a child 12-years-old or under.

According to the indictment, on or before Aug. 3, 2011, Ballou caused serious physical injury to the boy. He also intentionally abused or permitted another person of whom he has actual custody to be abused and thereby caused serious physical injury to the child, who is physically helpless or mentally helpless.

Kentucky State Police in Morehead located Ballou at a residence on Wallow Hole Road in Elliott County.

According to the terms of a plea agreement, Ballou agreed to enter an Alford plea in exchange for a recommended sentence of 10 years for first-degree assault and 10 years for first-degree criminal abuse of a child 12 years or younger, to be served consecutively, for a total of 20 years in prison.

NICHOLAS C. BALLOU appeared Friday in Lawrence Circuit Court, where Judge John David Preston sentenced him to 20 years in prison for physically abusing his 2-month-old son. BSN photo/Lilly Adkins

Letters to the editor

Editor:

On July 1, 1863, free mail delivery was authorized in cities. From the start, carriers were expected to make deliveries "as frequently as the public convenience....shall require," Monday through Saturday. (12 Stat. 703). Free mail delivery to rural Americans began in 1896 out of three Post Offices in West Virginia. From the start, city and rural letter carriers delivered mail six days a week, usually Monday through Saturday. However, there are two towns where mail is delivered on Sunday, and not Saturday. Only Collegedale, Tenn., and Angwin, Calif., have Sunday mail delivery both home to large Seventh-day Adventist communities.

Now, everyone is on the verge of losing mail service on the weekend. You see a Republican lead Congress with concurrence from the Democrats passed in 2006 "The Postal Accountability and Enhancement Act" based on a manufactured crisis about pensions and benefits. In effect, a poison pill was contained in the bill requiring the Postal Service to repay health benefits for workers 75 years in advance. Understand, 75 years means most haven't been hired and many are yet to be born. To complicate things even more this escrow account had to be funded in ten years to satisfy the Republican White House. The result, the Post Office, debt free in 2005, is now billions in the red; 1000 post offices have closed, 193,000 good jobs gone, and 13,000 of the remaining 32,000 post offices are threatened with reduced service and hours. Most people mistakenly think the Post Office is simply losing money due to the Internet and email. Not true! Congress, influenced by lobbyists from UPS, FedEx, and Pitney Bowes to name a few; along with corporate funded conservative groups and think tanks such as American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC), and CATO Institute, and the Heritage Foundation (which I once considered joining) have prints all over this legislation.

New Postal Legislation: S 1761 and H.R. 2748 end 6 day delivery of mail and put the Post Office into a death spiral. Only you can save our most trusted Government agency, the Post Office. Please contact Senator McConnell, 202-224-2541, and Senator Paul, 202-224-4343, along with your Congressman, now! Say no to these bills and save Saturday mail, thousands of jobs, post offices, and America.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Jack Perry, Jr.

*You never said I'm leaving,
you never said goodbye.
You were gone before I knew it,
and only God knew why.
A million times I needed you,
a million times I cried.
If love alone could have saved you,
you never would have died.
In life, I loved you dearly.
In death, I love you still.
In my heart you hold a place that no one else could ever fill.
It broke my heart to lose you,
but you didn't go alone,
for part of me went with you the day God called you home.*

3 ways you're using Facebook wrong

by Kim Komando

Kim Komando hosts the nation's largest talk radio show about consumer electronics, computers and the Internet.

If you're like most people, you visit Facebook a few times a day. You catch up on the latest gossip, "Like" cute baby or pet pictures, and maybe post something yourself. Facebook makes these things simple.

Facebook is so simple, in fact, that you might not know you're using it wrong. Here are 3 things you really need to stop doing on Facebook.

1. Confuse public and private conversations

There are a few ways to communicate on Facebook. One is to post a message on your Timeline for everyone to see.

Another is to post a message directly to a friend's Timeline. These are the posts that show up in your Timeline labeled "Jane Doe > John Doe."

Far too many people think the second method is a private conversation. That isn't the case. Think of it like a public speaker on stage talking to one audience member instead of the entire audience. Everyone can still hear everything they're saying.

I've seen people who don't know this ask friends very personal questions. It can be embarrassing for everyone.

To send a private message, click the Messages link to the left of your news feed. Then click the New Message button.

You can also go to your friend's profile page and click the Message button near the top right of the page. Or, just pick up a phone.

2. Overshare

Social media sites like Facebook encourage you to post your thoughts, experiences, pictures, videos and whatever else you feel like. This can lead people to share things like what they had for breakfast. Detailed relationship woes are another favorite. How about the fact you're out of town for a while? Thieves love that one.

But a recent study from the University of Birmingham found oversharing is more complex. It seems sharing too many photos - even if they're nice photos - can damage your real-life relationships and cost you friends.

Of course, "too many" is relative, but there are a few guidelines. If you like to post "selfies," or shots featuring just you, dial it back to important events, like a new haircut.

Also, photos of you with certain friends tend to turn off your friends and family who weren't there. Photos of immediate family and significant others, however, seem to be OK.

3. Include too much information in photos

This is similar to oversharing, but carries more risk. Smartphones and some newer standalone cameras can embed GPS information into photos.

Anyone who knows how to read this can see where your photos were taken. That means they can find your house, kids' school or other important locations.

So before you upload a photo, make sure it's clean.

In Windows you can right click a photo and choose Properties. In the Details tab, click the "Remove Properties and Personal Information" button. Mac users, and Windows users who want to clean a bunch of photos at once, can use a program like XnView.

On a smartphone, you can turn off GPS when you're taking pictures. To

by Colby Kirk
IDB INTERN

On July 16, the Inez Deposit Bank interns hosted Mary Westfall-Holbrook, chief engineer for the Kentucky Department of Highways District 12, which encompasses Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Lawrence, Letcher, Martin and Pike counties. Holbrook is a graduate of the University of the Kentucky, where she earned a degree in civil engineering. She has worked for the Department of Highways since 2001.

Holbrook spoke to the interns about all of the projects that are currently planned and underway in Martin and Lawrence counties. She brought a wealth of knowledge to the table, along with several maps. She discussed the importance of highway construction and its role in economic development. Her presentation tied in closely with the theme of the Intern program this summer, "What's Next: The Economic Future and Potential of our Region." Holbrook said, "For every dollar invested in highway construction, the local economy receives $5.60 in economic benefits. That's a return of more than 500%!" She went on to discuss how highway construction provides many jobs for people in our region and how projects, like the Route 645 / Route 40 project are essential when it comes to attracting business to our area.

The bulk of Holbrook's presentation focused on the 645 project currently underway at Sheldon Clark High School. She helped us debunk a few of the myths surrounding the project as well. The 645 / Route 40 project is a $100,000,000 plan to connect Inez and Warfield, and eventually connect to Route 52, the Coalfield Expressway, in West Virginia. This addition extends from Sheldon Clark High School to Route 292 between Warfield and Warfield Elementary School. She assured us that the second phase of the project has been approved in Frankfort and they will continue to cut and blast their way to Warfield.

Adding onto the economic development factor, Holbrook spoke about the addition of a 50-acre industrial site to be added near the newly constructed route.

"This will give Martin County more room to grow and attract businesses and jobs for the area." Overall, Holbrook's presentation was optimistic about the future of Martin County. She was confident that this road will open up the interior of our county for economic expansion. Access to roadways is essential for the development of our region. Holbrook ended her presentation by reassuring us that Martin County will begin to grow, but she said, "You've got to survive the growing pains first."

The Rights of the Service Member Returning Home: Understanding USERRA

by Lance A. Daniels

As a result of the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, as well as continuing deployments to places such as the Horn of Africa and Kuwait, our service members have and will continue to be called upon to mobilize and deploy to these theater of operations and strategically important locations. Consequently, these mobilizations and deployments have taken and will continue to take a tremendous toll on each respective service member and their families. Dealing with issues such as depression, post-traumatic stress disorder, anxiety disorders, service connected physical injuries and the transition to and from military life to civilian life is enough to effect even the strongest of individuals and families. One stressor that should not be found nor prevalent but unfortunately often times can be found are problems that service members face with their civilian employers as a result of their military service.

Service members are afforded protection under what is known as the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 (USERRA, 38 USC 4301-4335). USERRA is a federal law intended to ensure that persons who serve or have served in the Armed Forces, Reserves, National Guard or other "uniformed services" (1) are not disadvantaged in their civilian careers because of their service; (2) are promptly reemployed in their civilian jobs upon their return from duty; and (3) are not discriminated against in employment based on past, present, or future military service. In order for USERRA to apply the service can be either voluntary or involuntary and cannot exceed five years.

There are basically five key points and events in regard to USERRA:

- Before the service member is hired. This prohibits initial employment being effected as a result of past, present or future military service.

- While service member is employed. This prevents employers from denying retention in employment, promotion or any benefit of employment because of past, present or future military service.

- While service member is absent. There is protection against reductions in force (RIF's), and the employee service member shall be deemed on a leave of absence and enjoys any advantages as if the service member was present at their civilian job.

- When service members give notice. The service member should as a good practice provide written notice along with a copy of their military orders to their employer. However, in most instances a verbal notification is sufficient.

- When service member returns (reemployment). The service member should be entitled to reemployment as long as they have given or gave advance notice of service as well as notice of completion of service (If the period of service is less than 31 days then immediate notification to the civilian employers is normally required but may have as long as 90 days to provide notice of completion of service if the period of service has exceeded 180 days), performs qualifying service (the service member cannot receive a dishonorable, bad conduct or an other than honorable discharge) and timely reports for duty and request reemployment.

USERRA applies to private employers as well as federal, state and local government employers. If a service member believes their USERRA rights have been violated they may but are not required to file a complaint with the United States Department of Labor-Veterans Employment and Training Services (VETS). Service members also have several other avenues to pursue legal action for violations of USERRA to include having a private attorney handle the case or seek assistance from the United States Attorney General's Office or the Office of Special Counsel.

There was a story about this just the other day. A reality-TV cast member at a restaurant posted pictures of his lobster dinner and $50,000 watch on Instagram.

A thief who was in the neighborhood saw the photos. He went to the restaurant and tried to steal the cast member's watch! The thief didn't get it, but I think the lesson is clear.

Bulldogs rout Boyd County in season opener

LOUISA — Preseason All-State honoree A.J. Cyrus had a hand in on four touchdowns on Friday night to lead Lawrence County to a convincing 56-15 win over visiting non-district opponent Boyd County.

Cyrus ran Lawrence County's option offense with plenty of efficiency. The Lawrence County offense piled up nearly 500 yards in the 2013 debut. On the ground, Cyrus rushed 15 times for 160 yards and two touchdowns. The Lawrence County quarterback completed all three of his pass attempts for 134 yards and two touchdowns.

Lawrence County scored two touchdowns in each quarter en route to the 56-15 win. After carrying a 14-0 lead out of the opening quarter, Lawrence County outscored Boyd County 14-8 in the second period to lead 28-8 at halftime.

Host Lawrence County added to its lead early in the second half, blanking Boyd County 14-0 in the third quarter.

The Bulldogs overcame some adversity to win big. Lawrence County starting fullback Ricky Goble was limited in the contest. Goble exited the game after hurting his right ankle. Prior to suffering the injury, Goble had only rushed twice for 15 yards.

Sophomore Cole Mosley replaced Goble in the Lawrence County lineup and fared very well, rushing six times for 91 yards and two touchdowns.

Derek Ferguson rushed a dozen times for 77 yards and one touchdown. Another Lawrence County rusher, Cameron Little, took three carries for 12 carries.

Cyrus spread his three passes out among two receivers. Freshman Timmy Dalton hauled in two receptions for 76 yards and one touchdown. Noah Lambert grabbed the other scoring pass, which just happened to be a 58-yard touchdown toss.

Christian Braly and Billy McCoy each had a rushing touchdown for Boyd County in the loss.

McCoy, Boyd County's starting quarterback, struggled through the air. The Boyd County signal-caller managed to complete one of six passes for eight yards and two interceptions.

Each team was charged with nine penalties in the season-opener.

Lawrence County (1-0) will visit Rowan County (0-1) this Friday. Kickoff for the Lawrence County-Rowan County football game is set for 7:30 p.m.
